Down-sizing: Less is
More
Many of my private appraisal clients seek advice and valuation for the purpose of down-sizing or liquidating personal property. In fact, the need is so great that I offer half day seminars to help people decide which method to use. The choices include auction, estate sale, a smaller yard sale, charitable donation and variations of each. My next such event is June 10th, at Volunteer State Community College. I'll provide guidelines on pricing, display, paperwork, and pitfalls. Click here to register.

Appraisal Events: for Groups, Businesses, Club Meetings

Judy Pruitt at First National Bank in Pulaski recently emailed:

'Hope you are resting up for the fabulous morning we are expecting in Pulaski on June 1. I have over 150 folks anxiously waiting to bring you their "stuff." And they are still calling. We do so love our antiques here in Giles County. My fear, Connie Sue is that we are going to overwhelm you with items. This looks to be a 200 item day.' My reply - 'I will answer their questions until we're done!'

or book your own Appraisal Party. I can draw a crowd and make you look good. Just ask Judy. This is her third year of Connie Sue events.

Weekly Columns

In addition to the Friday Williamson AM, I'm now taking questions from readers of the WESTVIEW paper in Nashville for their Friday edition.

Reader feedback is encouraging:

*We checked your Williamson AM column, its great. Keep up the good work.

*Thank you so much for the very informative article in this morning's Williamson AM regarding the Fenton glass. Loved your article !!

*Thanks much for your descriptive comments and identification of resources.

American pottery prices continue to rise. BUY NOW
