As a caregiver for aging parents you have far more pressing matters than the sorting and disposition of the personal property in their home. There is help, though. During this time of emotional stress, it helps to have a caring and knowledgeable professional to assist in this overwhelming task. Connie Sue Inc.'s consulting services and estate sale seminars can provide the information and support you'll need. Click here to see how we can guide you through this daunting task. Or if you would like to offer this information to your staff or organization click here for an event planning guide. We have templates for e-mail invitations, promotion, and announcements. What a caring thing to share.

What do Personal Property Appraisers do for FUN?

For entertainment, amusement, and comfort, Connie Sue spends time in local antique malls. The people are kind and always ready for conversation. Many of the items are peculiar things we don't see anymore, like “milking stools, fireside toasters, and buggy blankets.” You'll discover fine crystal for under $10, and things that will make you wonder, “who would sell this, and how can they ask so little?” The best treasure is the plethora of fond memories associated with many of the items. Take your friends or your children when you go. You'll find yourself saying “Don't you remember when?” or “Didn't Mother have a...” For Connie Sue, antique malls provide a way to keep track of prices and trends, but also a way to remember old times and trinkets.

Antique malls are relaxing, but if you want some excitement, check out the prices at Funtiques. This monthly consignment sale is exhilarating, fast paced, and on the square in Murfreesboro,

Tennessee.
